About IBSD

North East Region of India is a genetic treasure house of plants, animals and microbial resources. It is one of the 12 mega biodiversity rich zones of the world under Indo-Burma Hotspot. Realizing the importance of the rich biodiversity and the unique bioresources of the region, Department of Biotechnology, Ministry of Science and Technology, Government of India established the Institute of Bioresources and Sustainable Development (IBSD) at Imphal, Manipur in the year 2001 under the Manipur Societies Registration Act, 1989 in order to set up the state of art biotechnology research facilities at Imphal for sustainable development of bioresources. The main mandate of this institute is conservation and sustainable utilization of bioresources for the socio-economic development of the region.

About International E-Summit

United Nation World Tourism Organization (UNWTO) has given a call to all the signatory nations to adopt sustainable tourism in order to achieve Global Sustainable Development Goals of UN. It is therefore imperative for world economies to promote biodiversity and conservation-based ecotourism.

Ecotourism is responsible travel to fragile, pristine and usually protected areas that improves the well-being of the local people by generating sustainable and equitable income for local communities and creates awareness on conservation among tourists. It has immense potential in employment generation and poverty alleviation, especially in regions having high biological diversity and natural assets. The Entrepreneurship Development Cell of Shivaji College, University of Delhi, India, in association with Institute of Bioresources and Sustainable Development (IBSD) has chosen the theme 'Entrepreneurship Development through Ecotourism in Northeast India' for an International E Summit scheduled on February 14-15, 2019. The states of North East India have a rich cultural heritage along with abundant growth potential for Eco tourism. WWF has identified the entire eastern Himalayan region that includes all eight states of North East, as a priority Global 200 Eco region. In recent years, it has been observed that there is a growing trend towards travel to ecotourism destinations in this region.

The need of the hour therefore is to promote community based tourism in this culturally rich and bio-diverse region. The involvement of all the sections of the local community, including women could lead to overall economic development of these areas. E-Summit aims to bring together stakeholders like individuals, communities, ecotourists, planners, investors, environmentalists with the multi-pronged objective of creating awareness about Ecotourism and inspiring budding entrepreneurs to tread this path with great enthusiasm, knowledge and caution.
